

NEWS FORECAST OF THIS WEEK

First and Foremost Comes the Election on Tuesday—Battleships to Leave Amoy.

Predominant in the news schedule of the week is the national election on Tuesday following a campaign that has attracted world-wide attention. Monday will be given over to final appeals to voters by the various candidates from presidential aspirants down.

William H. Taft, the Republican presidential candidate, will wind up his campaign in Youngstown, O., on Monday night, following a day speech at Cleveland. William J. Bryan, the Democratic nominee, on his way to his home in Lincoln, Neb., from his eastern tour, is scheduled to speak in northwestern Kansas on the same day.

James S. Sherman, the Republican vice presidential candidate, will spend Monday at his home in Utica, having finished his speaking campaign.

John W. Kern, Mr. Bryan's running mate, plans to devote Monday to a tour of Ohio, with a night meeting at Toledo.

Concluding arguments in the trial of Charles F. Morse and Alfred H. Curtis, charged with violation of the federal banking laws, will be made in New York City on Monday. On Wednesday here, in the government's suit to dissolve the Standard Oil company will be resumed in New York.

Ceremonies incident to the opening of the Spokane, Portland and Seattle railroad will take place at Portland, Ore., on Tuesday. Many prominent Pacific coast business and railroad men will be in attendance.

A hearing will be given in Paris on Wednesday on petition of Count Boni de Castellane for a modification of the decree of divorce obtained by his wife, who was Miss Anna Gould of New York, on account of her subsequent marriage to Heile de Sagan. In order to give the count's mother the custody of his children.

To Clean Fruit Jars.

Success in canning fruit depends upon having the jars thoroughly cleansed and sterilized; if fruit has once spoiled in a jar the same thing will happen again, if the jar is merely washed and not boiled. To make sure that the jars are in good condition, put them on the back of the stove in a pan of cold water in which has been dissolved a tablespoonful of Gold Dust washing powder and let come to a boil. The tops should also be immersed for a few minutes in boiling water and old rubbers should never be used. After the can has been filled, shake, screw the tops on and invert the cans to make sure there are no air holes.

Standard Oil—Which Party Is It Supporting in this Campaign?

I—THE CLAIM.

For a long time the Republican campaigners and newspapers have been saying that coal oil is on the free list, and, therefore, that this greatest of all the monopolies in America is not due to the tariff. They have always pointed to this case to prove that an industry which sells its products abroad more cheaply than at home, and which crushes out its local competitors, is not necessarily a tariff trust.

Men high in official position in the Republican party have said this to the writer. After some research he is now able to throw light on the puzzling question—light that will also indicate which party it is that Mr. Rockefeller is supporting.

II—THE FACTS.

American coal oil is shipped to various European countries, especially Belgium, and sold there at from 7 1/2 to 9 1/2 cents per gallon. The price in our country is never less than 15 cents per gallon, except when in any locality a merchant is to be ruined who has ventured to re-import a cargo of American oil from Belgium. In that case, wherever he offers oil for sale, the Standard Oil company cuts its price below him, so that he must either sell at a loss or sell out to the Standard Oil. As soon as he is thus put out of business, up goes the price of oil in that place, high enough to pay all the loss the company has incurred while ruining its competitor or forcing him out of the business. All men know something of this; but all Republican speakers and papers seem to know only that oil is on the free list in the Dingley law.

III—THE TRICK IN THE LAW.

But there is one thing that the writer earnestly hopes, for the good of their souls, the Republican campaigners did not know when they declared that coal oil is on the free list. Hidden away in the free list of the Dingley bill is the provision that petroleum should be admitted free of duty provided "That if there be imported into the United States crude petroleum, or the products of crude petroleum produced in any country which imposes a duty on petroleum or its products exported from the United States, there shall in such cases be levied, paid and collected a duty upon said crude petroleum or its products so imported equal to the duty imposed by such country."

The Russian duty on imports of petroleum is from 150 per cent. to 250 per cent. and Russia is the only country which can export petroleum to this country. So that for all practical purposes the Standard Oil company is protected from foreign competition by a duty of 150 to 200 per cent.

Thus, while pretending, before the people, to be repealing the tariff protection on oil, the Republican congress was actually increasing and did increase it up to the Russian figures.

Not only, therefore, is the Standard Oil monopoly protected by a tariff of from 150 to 250 per cent., but that per cent. of protection is really given to it and written for it by Russia! If the autocrat of the Muscovite despotism decides to increase the duty on oil, that act fixes the duty in this country also.

IV—THEREFORE, WHICH PARTY?

Now we perceive which party the Standard Oil is supporting and why. To the question, "Shall we take the duty off trust controlled articles with arbitrary prices fixed upon the customer without regard to laws of supply and demand, all competition having thus been throttled?" the Democratic platform says yes; while the Republican platform is silent.

If anyone could find out just how many hundred million gallons of oil are sold annually in this country at from 15 to 30 cents per gallon, while the average cost of production is said to be less than 5 cents per gallon—at least, great and ever-increasing quantities of it are shipped to Europe and sold there at from 7 1/2 to 9 cents per gallon—then we should know just how many hundred millions of dollars each year the oil monopoly, with the aid of the Republican tariff, wrings from the consumers of coal oil, mostly poor people, in the United States.

The result would show that the oil company could easily pay, if necessary, a fine of $29,000,000, every other year, provided that the Czar of all the Russias, with the advice and "persuasion" of the Standard Oil agents, shall be permitted to write, in the statutes of the United States of America, the measure of protection to be enjoyed by the Standard Oil.

And since the Democratic platform declares that "articles entering into competition with trust-controlled products" should be "put upon the free list," and that "material reductions should be made upon the necessities of life, especially upon articles competing with such American manufactures as are sold more cheaply abroad than at home," the Republican platform says nothing about this matter, except to guarantee to manufacturers "a reasonable profit." It is perfectly clear that Mr. Rockefeller means what he says when he declares that he is supporting Taft.

INTEREST BECOMING GREATER WITH EACH SUCCEEDING DAY

News of Special Prize Results Now in Preparation—Flood of Votes Came Pouring in at Last Minute, Creating No End of Work for Contest Department.

An old resident of Mercur writes to The Herald's contest department from that camp concerning the candidacy of Mrs. M. C. Rawlings. "I want all information regarding the contest, for I want Mrs. Rawlings to be in the winning when the prizes are distributed."

Mrs. Rawlings is manager of the Rocky Mountain Bell Telephone company's exchange at Mercur—an exchange of size and importance. She is described as a widow with one daughter, and is extremely popular in the camp and throughout the neighborhood. "She is a type of the business woman whose cleverness in business matters does not rob her of a whit of her charming womanliness," the letter continues. "She is attractive, indeed, and there is not a man, woman or child in these parts who would not do anything for her." In the writer, Mrs. Rawlings has a supporter worth having and that the candidacy is to see results surely seems certain.

That Mrs. Rawlings is a keen, clever business woman, as is so emphasized in the missive, is evident from the fact that she is manager of the Bell exchange. A local official, questioned concerning her, was glad to add a word of commendation, more than that, admiration: "Our exchange at Mercur is important, and Mrs. Rawlings manages affairs to our complete satisfaction and to that of all patrons. She often has a large force of men under her control, and since she was appointed to manage the Mercur office, we have had little or no trouble from any source whatever. The men who work under her direction have nothing but words of praise. That is something worthy of consideration. Countless little ruffles are constantly threatening to mar the smoothness of affairs where large forces are under one management, but over there in Mercur ruffles don't ever show, even."

It is evident Mrs. Rawlings will receive no end of support in this contest. An odd and rather amusing little incident came up through the nomination of Joseph Barlow as a candidate in The Herald's competition. "Joe" Barlow, sr., and Joseph Barlow, jr., have been wondering which was meant to have been honored. Mr. Barlow, jr., said he believes it was his father; the father believes it was his son. "Joe" Barlow, the elder, is one of the best-known old-time residents of the city; the son is just as well known among the city's younger sets. The father was for years a member of the city's police department and a more efficient officer never walked a Salt Lake beat. Years and years ago Mr. Barlow was a baseball player. In the days of the old Red Stockings, he was a catcher of more than local fame. In the games played on a diamond located on the ground where the city and county building now stands he laid the foundations of a reputation which still lives among the older citizens.

Which—father or son—was nominated as a candidate in The Herald's competition? Each regards it as a kindly act, but each insists the other was the one nominated.

The news regarding the winners of the "gain" prizes will be prepared for publication just as rapidly as possible. Thousands of votes came pouring in at the last minute last night, and it will take some time to get all counted and the standing of candidates tabulated. The eagerness displayed by all candidates to have as good a showing as possible and the big bundles of votes they turned in to strengthen their position show that interest in the contest is greater each succeeding day. Many new candidates are just starting to work and are finding rich fields to canvass. Many new entrants express surprise at the ease with which they are getting votes. They confess they felt the contest was entering the home stretch, but they are finding, to their delight, that it is young and full of opportunities. There's room for more. Get in and get what the other candidate has overlooked.

Remember, "there's finer fish in the sea than have been caught." In the hurry and scurry of other campaign matters, many a wise man and woman is stopping to get entered in The Herald's contest and do some campaigning that will bring them rich reward.

PIE-BITERS ON THEIR WAY HOME

Federal Office Holders Leave Washington to Vote for the Trusts.

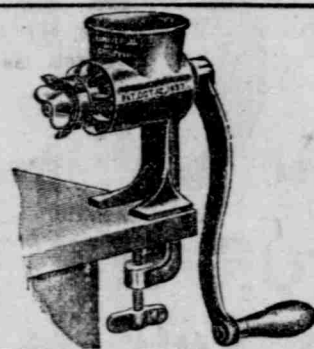

Washington, Nov. 1.—Such an exodus as has been taking place in the last four or five days from the national capital of voters entitled to the right of franchise in various states has not been known in any political campaign since that of 1896.

A careful canvass of the several executive departments showed up to noon yesterday approximately 3,700 voters had already gone to their homes and many hundreds more left Washington last night and today. It is estimated 1,600 more will leave for nearby states tonight and tomorrow.

President Roosevelt, Secretary Loeb and several White House attaches, who hold voting residences at Oyster Bay or other places in New York, will leave Washington tomorrow night. All members of the cabinet are now in their respective states except Secretary Wright and Secretary Metcalf. The former failed to register in Tennessee and the latter is confined to his residence by a serious illness.

Have Personal Interests.

The unusual number of government employees who this year are embracing the opportunity to cast their ballots indicates the intensity of interest taken in Washington in the result of next Tuesday's election. While the presidency, of course, is the overshadowing issue, thousands are interested keenly, many of them personally, in the result of congressional campaigns. Particular interest is manifested in Washington in the campaign of Speaker Cannon. Telegrams from the speaker to friends here express confidence in the result of Tuesday's balloting, not only so far as he himself is concerned, but also as to the Republican national ticket. Mr. Cannon expresses the belief that the Republicans will have in the house of the Sixty-first congress a comfortable working majority.
